Programme rationale:

This programme has been purposefully constructed with each piece in tact as is. I recognize that the programme is foreign language heavy, however, each piece has VERY few words (see the lyrics for foreign language selections below), and is composed in a language that is extremely simple (Latin, Hebrew, and Spanish). I would like to suggest that more work would be needed if the pieces were in English, as the English alternates I considered required a much heavier English text, which is more difficult to pronounce and perform well. In addition, the programme exposes students to a variety of genres and cultures, which enriches ontological and musical perspectives. One of the pieces (Ani Ma'amin) is unison, allowing for tone and vocal line to abound, which I feel is extremely important for the students to experience, let alone the minor quality and beautiful violin accompaniment. The unison nature also contrasts the foreign text.

As an educator with middle school experience at both a rural school district with little exposure to fine choral music and a school district rich in musical excellence, I feel I have a strong grasp on the plethora of student capabilities. This programme will not only be artistically pleasing, but will be rich in culture, modality, vocal line and inspiration. The SA State Honors Choir selections will offer many fresh pieces to the ears and eyes of our Michigan music educators and students alike -- and will allow them to experience this programme in culturally and musically diverse ways.

I look forward to singing, growing alongside and creating meaningful musical experiences with your students this year!

Grateful and Inspired,

Lindsay Wills
